Consultant's visit – The group discussed Mary Stuart Hunter's productive visit and indicated that they would like for her to continue working with us on the QEP. Hopefully Dr. Hunter can return in April to work with us.

Scott VanSelow provided an update on critical thinking and indicated that he has recorded training materials in critical thinking for faculty and will place them on the web. A discussion followed concerning the other three cornerstone pieces of the QEP and it was decided that the sub-committees would meet to develop a working definition of each cornerstone and report back to the committee in two weeks. Student learning outcomes could then be finalized.

Student learning outcomes – sub-committees - Once the definitions of each cornerstone are in place, the sub-committees will meet and refine the student learning outcomes for the course.
