Harry Potter and Historical Fiction invites students to embark on a transformative journey through the landscapes and literary legacies of Scotland and England. Against the backdrop of the Scottish Highlands, Edinburgh, and London, students will explore how imagination and place shape storytelling. Anchored by the cultural resonance of J. K. Rowling's Wizarding World and the romanticized Scotland of Sir Walter Scott and Diana Gabaldon's Outlander, this course offers a unique lens into the roots of historical fiction, fantasy, and their enduring spell on readers. By immersing themselves in these literary landscapes, students will gain a deeper appreciation for literature's power to transform personal and collective realities.
